Healthy Streets and Self-Driving Cars

On Monday, LADOT General Manager Seleta Reynolds was the main plenary session speaker at the Oregon Active Transportation Summit 2016 which hosted individuals with different expertise, perspectives, and strategies for improving health, equity, safety, access, and livability in our communities. This summit focused on safety for everyone using our roadways, and on healthy, vibrant communities that enhance prosperity for all. The next day, Ms. Reynolds participated in the Austin, TX SXSW Interactive Festival 2016 panel: Autonomous Vehicles and the American City. This panel discussed how the technology world is infatuated by the notion of self-driving cars: autonomous marvels that can get from point A to B without human interaction and how this technology will affect American lives.
